

Wade Reh to Serve as River Valley District Extension Director

MANHATTAN, Kan. – Wade Reh will begin serving as the River Valley District Extension Director, effective January 24, 2021. River Valley District has offices located in Belleville, Clay Center, Concordia, and Washington, KS; Reh’s primary office is Clay Center.

He earned his bachelor’s degree in Animal Science from Oklahoma State University, and both his master’s degree in Animal Science and his doctorate in Genetics from the University of California, Davis.

Reh has most recently been employed as an Agriculture and Natural Resources agent for K-State Research and Extension in Kiowa County.

Extension Directors provide administrative leadership for budget and fiscal operations, personnel management of local staff, overall program development, delivery and evaluation, and assurance of accessibility to local programming by all individuals. He will also be working directly with the Agriculture and Natural Resources programs in the River Valley District.

Local Extension faculty are jointly employed in a partnership between K-State Research and Extension, headquartered on the Kansas State University campus in Manhattan, and the local Extension board.

The role of K-State Research and Extension is to encourage the adoption of research-based information to improve the quality of life for Kansans. K-State Research and Extension is the short name for the Kansas State University Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service.

More information about K-State Research and Extension River Valley District is available by calling (785) 632-5335 or online at rivervalley.k-state.edu. Reh can be contacted via email at wreh@ksu.edu.